

Provision and installation of an access control system (turnstile) at the Olympic Village

(Athens, September 2024) The provision and installation of an access control system (turnstile) at the Olympic Village in Thrakomakedones has been successfully executed. The turnstile is full height, made of stainless steel and allows the passage of an individual person at a time, with integrated LED indicators that signal whether the entry is permitted or not. It supports bidirectional flow and there is a capability of operating in both normal circumstances and emergency situations.

Our company conducted an implementation study and designed plans for the configuration of entry/exit points, supplied and installed the essential equipment and activated it's cloud integration on a secure company server within an MS Azure environment, in compliance with the GDPR requirements. The access control system enables the entry/exit via card or mobile phone and incorporates an emergency release mechanism. There are included proximity cards, as well as cloud integration for monitoring and administration of the system. Cloud services are furnished along with annual maintenance and support services.
